

THE WAR CRY

ARMY SONGS

WE HAVE A MESSAGE
Tune.—For you I am praying, 27.
We have a message, a message from the Cross of Jesus.
And now is now hastening, its moments are few;
He's seeking poor sinners, make haste to receive Him,
The Master is come and He calls
for you.

Chorus
For you He is calling, etc.

We have a message, a message from Jesus.
A message of love to the poor sinner's soul; the love of my Jesus will snap all his fetters.
The blood of my Saviour makes perfectly whole.

JUST AS I AM
Just as I am, without one plea,
But that Thy blood was shed for me,
And that Thou bidst me come to Thee.
O Lamb of God, I come!

Just as I am—and waiting not
To rid my soul of one dark spot—
To Thee, whose blood can cleanse each blot.
O Lamb of God, I come!

NEARER THAN EVER
Tune.—Nearer my home, 71.
One sweetly solemn thought Comes to me o'er and o'er—
I'm nearer home to-day,
Than ever I've been before,
etc.

Chorus
Nearer my home, nearer my home,
I'm nearer my home to-day.
Than ever I've been before.

Nearer the bound of life,
Where burdens are laid down;
Nearer leaving the Cross to-day,
Nearer gaining the crown.

Be near me when my feet
Are slipping o'er the brink;
For I am nearer home to-day,
Nearer now than I think.

GATHER AT THE RIVER
Tune.—Shall we gather at the river, 155.
Shall we gather at the river With bright angel feet have trod.
With its crystal tide for ever Flowing by the Throne of God?

Chorus
Yes, we'll gather at the river,

At the shining of the river,
Mirror of the Saviour's face,
Saints whom death will never sever
Raise their song of saving grace.
Soon we'll reach the silver river;
Soon our pilgrimage will cease;
Soon our happy hearts will quiver
With the melody of peace.

SHEPHERD OF ISRAEL
Tunes.—Thou Shepherd of Israel, 100;
Realms of the best, 100;
Song Book, No. 395.

Thou Shepherd of Israel and mine,
The joy and desire of my heart,
For closer communion I pine,
I long to reside where Thou art.

Chorus
Oh, speak with me more than I pray.

The pasture I languish to find
Where all who their Shepherd obey
Are fed, on Thy bosom reclined,
And screened from the heat of the day.
Ah! show me that happiest place;
Where saints in true happiness gaze,
And hang on a crucified God.

HE GAVE ME PARDON

Tune.—Annie Laurie.
When my heart was black and sinful
And all was dark as night;
Jesus came and whispered pardon,
And my darkness turned to light.

Chorus

Jesus saves me—this I know,
And His blood makes white as snow;
He can save; yes, Hallelujah!
All who to the Fountain go.

Sinner, take out look at Calvary,
At Him who bled and died;
There to purchase your salvation,
"It is finished!" hear Him cry.

—Mrs. Envy Ivey, N. Sydney.

THE CAPTAIN'S BIBLE

A Story of Answered Prayer

A blind woman sat alone in her garret. The day had seemed very long, for she was not used to the darkness, and she had not seen any of these industries by means of which those deprived of their eyesight not only earn a livelihood, but also learn resignation and even content.

This poor woman had gone blind through the cruelty of a drunken husband.

Hearing a familiar step on the stairs, she asked: "Is that you Jim?"

"Yes, wench," came the reply; "I am coming with God in one hand and the devil in the other." After which profanity he stumbled hither to the bottom.

Those who have studied the poison men call drink tell us that alcohol acts differently upon different temperaments, and facts certainly seem to corroborate the statement.

There was no plank to which it did not cling, and it was here that the Captain of the Corps he launched was a great lover of her Bible, and both in the open-air and indoors based her appeal upon a "thus saith the Lord." The Captain's Bible took the poor soul, fancy one night in the dark, and when he awoke, he declared was to be his last—in the other.

At the foot of the stairs he lay unconscious and badly cut. The converts carried him to his garret and remained with him until he regained his senses. Next day the Captain came.

As soon as he was able to rise he went to the Hall and sought Salvation. He became a good Soldier and a devoted husband, though the world outside would remain a life-long sorrow. When he died He does not always see fit to remove the temporal punishment we have brought upon ourselves. Perhaps this is that men may learn the exceeding sinfulness of sin—"The Deliverer."

borough,

MAY I write to you as a fellow-sufferer and mourner? "But," you say, "What do you know of our government? It has not touched you!"

Ah, it touched me before some of you were born. My father was a soldier, my mother was a soldier's widow, and I a soldier's orphan.

My mother had been made desolate and a house of tears and mourning by his untimely death.

He left his little Heaven-at-home, his young, adoring wife, and his pony, and rode away to the bitter Civil War that wasted America for four long, weary years, and filled it with poverty and woe and unutterable grief and lamentation.

Shorter her life, and still baby was born to him, but the little life was brief. Jesus took it to welcome him in the Heavenly Home to which the cruel war soon sent him, and left me to comfort mother. He never forgot her, and she died in the welfare of his country, and I know what it means to the soldier's home when that price is paid.

A half-century has gone since those dark days, though the mists of years can still see mother's sad, tear-stained face and twister eyes, and I can still remember something of the wonder and ache in the heart of that soldier's orphan, who is still here for father, who will never more return.

So I write as one who understands something of your sorrow, and so may not write of it, not as yours alone, but as ours.

"They that are grief, and I must bear it," said Jeremiah in the midst of sorrows and afflictions which befell him and his country, and these words are appropriate to us this day. We are filled with grief. Loss and sorrow and trouble are laid upon us. We cannot escape it; we must bear it. But how shall we bear it? Ah, how?

How can we bear it? We must not despair. We must not become hardened, nor angry with God. He means to turn us. He is fulfilling such as us in our affliction. Of this I am sure. In this I write as one who has passed through sorrows and bitter sorrows.

"Behind a frowning Providence He hides a loving face." His purposes will ripen fast, unless stayed. Every hour, The bid may have a bitter taste, But sweet will be the flavor."

THE WEEK'S BEST STORY SELECTED FROM THE ARMY'S PRESS

A SIMPLE OPEN-AIR TESTIMONY

AND HOW IT LED A WANDERING SOUL TO GOD

IT was just an ordinary open-air meeting on the famous St. George's Plateau, Liverpool. There was nothing unusual about the crowd which circled the ring of Salvationists, listening eagerly to the words of truth and humbling admissions of the speaker. The speaker—a sister Soldier—the matron of a prominent institution in the city—got into the ring and told the story of her conversion.

In the listening throng was a woman, once beautiful, but now much faded as the result of the ravages of time and the ravages of disease. She had been a singer. She spoke with a quavering voice, and her eyes were dimmed with tears. She did not know God; a life of giddy ease had erected a barrier against her influence; but increasing weakness of body had filled her soul with a longing for something unknown; and the simple outlining of the secret of peace quickened her mind and kindled hope within her.

But that was not all. In the person of the speaker she recognized a friend, a helper, for whom she had longed. Together they had labored together in a famous London hospital. In those days they were equally giddy, extracting all the pleasure they could out of life and were slaves to enjoyment.

The speaker had met The Salvation Army, and had given her God. Since then the speaker attracted her, and she had been changed in a flash and she had come to live for others. The listener had continued to live as she had prayed, Oh, so hard, since

A Word to Those Who Have Lost Loved Ones in The War

BY COLONEL S. L. BRENGLE

if we only trust Him and do not despise nor grow weary of the discipline of affliction.

How, then, shall we bear our grief?

First, patiently. Let us not be too eager to understand all this mystery of misery and pain and woe and death.

"Blind unbelief is, sure to err; And sees His way to sin; And His cross, Interpreter; And He will make it plain."

And to this end God takes us. For the present we shall be wise; if we decide early into His will, humble ourselves under His mighty hand, and give ourselves to prayer, waiting for Him to lift us up.

Thirdly.—Date I say it?—Let us endeavour to bear our grief with thanksgiving. We have so much light thrown upon the problem of suffering in the Scriptures that we can take courage in the sight of our sorrow. "If we will but believe."

Job's pain and anguish in the loss of his darling children—his lonely sons and daughters—in the sudden collapse of his prosperity, in the loss of his wife, in the fierce pain and sickness, in the suspicion and reproofs of his friends, were aggravated by the lack of a revelation, that he was not as to God's purpose in pain and loss.

We have not been promised freedom from suffering in this world, but we look for a better world where there will be no more pain or death, and where all tears will be wiped away. Hallelujah! And, if we suffer, let us not be afraid to call upon God, remembering that whom the Lord loveth He tries and disciplines, and that our sorrow and sufferings are not necessarily tokens of His anger, but rather of His love.

Secondly, We must bear our grief trustfully. Job said: "I sought God, and I found Him." We must hold fast our faith, and fight our doubts and fears and resentments. "Faith in the night as the day" must be our motto. We must rest upon His sure word of promise. "Take to thyself a garment and go forth to meet the lost, saying, 'I have come to seek and to save that which we see others are suffering.' Today I prayed with a dying lad and tried to comfort his mother who was there with him. He was partly unconscious, but the mother so wanted me to pray with her that I said recognition in his eyes for a moment, and I said distinctly, 'O sister, do pray for me!' I did.

God has chosen us in the furnace of affliction, but it is in the honest furnace of trial that our spiritual armaments are developed. It is in the furnace (Concluded on Page 6) had commenced, without God. The meeting concluded, and the speaker went off to her work, and the listener to her home in the suburbs.

The next day later the matron received an urgent summons to visit an old friend of hers, and with all speed she set out to the address. Arriving, she was taken to a room where lay a woman almost in the throes of death. The end of the disease was drawing nigh.

As the Salafoniet walked into the room, the woman opened her eyes and muttered feebly, "At last—do you remember me? I am—" Then in trembling tones she told the speaker that God had been with her during life, and had attended the open-air meeting and had heard her old friend speak of forgiveness and peace.

"I have prayed, Oh, so hard, since

Paul was one of God's chosen servants, but he suffered whippings and stonings and shipwreck, imprisonment, and hunger and cold and peril, and, finally, martyrdom. It was hard to understand. He had a "secret sin" which was an intolerable anguish to him, as he supposed, a hindrance to his service. He cried to God to remove it, but instead, the Lord drew nigh and said to His suffering servant: "My grace is sufficient for thee, for My strength is made perfect in weakness."

Then said Paul: "Therefore, I take pleasure in infirmities, in infirmities, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses for Christ's sake; for when I am weak, then am I strong;" and for two thousand years an "eternal weight of glory" has been rolling up and increasing for Paul as a result of his afflictions: for every troubled soul finds comfort and help in the study of Paul's life and experience, but adds to the weight of Paul's glory.

Our own dear old General, it has always seemed to us, has shown God to be not only His special agent warrior among us, but also as His chief sufferer. None of us have suffered as did our General.

God has not given us all of us to an easy path. He withheld not His own beloved Son from intense sorrow and suffering, and a breaking heart, and if we suffer with Him and our faith fail not, we shall also reign with Him.

We have not been promised freedom from suffering in this world, but we look for a better world where there will be no more pain or death, and where all tears will be wiped away. Hallelujah! And, if we suffer, let us not be afraid to call upon God, remembering that whom the Lord loveth He tries and disciplines, and that our sorrow and sufferings are not necessarily tokens of His anger, but rather of His love.

His afflictions which seemed so hideous and intolerable, were really not light afflictions compared to the glory flowing from them, and that our sorrow and sufferings are not necessarily tokens of His anger, but rather of His love.

When John G. Paton, the great Missionary to the cannibals in the lonely islands of the Hebrides, in the far-away Southern Ocean, lost his darling wife, and digged her grave and buried her with his own then, he said, "But I know so little about God. Tell me—Oh, tell me more—quickly!"

The sands of time were rapidly running out, but the speaker had told the story of Jesus and tenderly by the aching soul into the fold—just in time—British "Cry."

PEOPLE TURNED AWAY

Many Seekers—Khaki Bandsomen Assist.

We are having good meetings at Barrie, and last Friday night people had to be turned away. Ensign and Mrs. Clark have won their way into the hearts of the contrades, while the singing of Mrs. Clark is a great attraction. The Salvationists have taken charge of our Corps ever thirty-five souls have knelt at the Cross.

The Campagni is in full swing and we are believing for greater victories. We are glad to have our Bandsmen from the Canadian Military soldiers) who, with the Bandmaster of Owen Sound, make a great asset to our Little Bap. A great welcome awaits the Commissioner—Inter-

WITH THE BOYS IN FRANCE

Being Some Extracts from the Note Book of Adjutant Mary Booth

I HAVE seen the British soldier under many conditions: have been a girl, seen him sad, and seen him laughing, and seen him struggling to keep the tears back. I have also seen him clean and smart, and him dirty and muddy when he has just come from the trenches. Then, again, I have seen him wounded, seen him just coming round from an amputation, seen him cast off an arm, and seen him half dead after an operation. He is not well when he is in hospital with the knowledge that he is down on the list for going home.

At No. — Hospital, when a man is to go home three pieces of tape are tied to the foot of the bed. Friends may come to see him, but the pieces of tape appear to occasion even this sort of fear. No探ans nor means escape him when he is lifted into the stretcher: "home, sweet home" lies at the end of the journey—he can bear anything.

During our visitation of the hospitals we often find the men asleep. We do not disturb them, simply put something in their little lockers and pass on. To-day a man awoke just while we were looking at his bedside. Imagine his pleasure at seeing a Salvationist near, for he told us he had just been dreaming about his own Corps—Bradford II.

Many of the scenes and incidents cluster at our hearts and often the lump rises in the throat as we think of the poor soul in the bed which we see others are suffering. Today I prayed with a dying lad and tried to comfort his mother who was there with him. He was partly unconscious, but the mother so wanted me to pray with her that I said recognition in his eyes for a moment, and I said distinctly, "O sister, do pray for me!" I did.

Was not able to get much sleep last night, for I could not help thinking about that poor, multilayered boy. He means a lot to us, though we see others are suffering. Today I prayed with a dying lad and tried to comfort his mother who was there with him. He was partly unconscious, but the mother so wanted me to pray with her that I said recognition in his eyes for a moment, and I said distinctly, "O sister, do pray for me!" I did.

They are in great trouble about their possessions, and as a consequence have not been able to sleep all night. The Brigadier examines their papers, supplies the needful, and soon allays their fears. I slipped my hymn on which the New Year is getting very slowly out of the pocket into his hands, and he picked up his pen and forwarded somewhat squashed, and took them to the hospital. The boy is conscious and recognizes his mother and any good doctor improves his spirit when she has much to tell him. The father seems almost dazed, but shortly he wakes up and has shrill prints past counting! Sent him some fruit, and wrote his friends about him.

Translated a letter from the French hospital which the Brigadier received; it was graciously expressing his thanks for a consignment of Auntie Eva's (Commander Eva Doolot) handbags. They are much valued.

Poor T.—The nurse says that he has not smiled since he has seen himself in the glass. He certainly is terribly disfigured. However, I am glad to say that we had the satisfaction of seeing him smile before we left. How good it is to tell of a happy religion!

Loved over a veterinary hospital to-day. There are 1,500 horses here. Some of their wounds were truly awful. One poor creature had five legs cut off, and yet still lived, as well as a lamb, and let me pat it, which I did most sympathetically! Dr. W. kindly let me see an operation. No trouble is spared. The horses are never sick after the chloroform, although they have enough to kill two or three men. The doctor is interested in the horses, perhaps, was that the doctor said they never have any cases of gangrene. I asked him if he could account for this, and he said, "Not unless it is that they are vegetarians!" Of course, I was delighted, and soon told him that I was one. We had quite a bit of fun over it. The doctor says he seems to come round for a few moments, and he gets really fond of some of the horses, and is quite sorry when they have to go.

This morning I was just starting to my daughter sister (she is so brave in her last head. His spirits are wonderfully good, and he laughingly said, "I suppose I shall have to eat a lot of chocolate to make my leg better."

Many of them thoroughly enjoy a good joke. One poor man, who had lost both of his arms, used to tell his friends, "I used to be a fat armchair, but now I'm a fat armchair in the mud." Ensign Whittaker said, "Well, I won't shake hands with you."

Among the letters to-day, one from a Mrs. G. S. Smith, "The few lines about my husband. If I could only see him, how glad I should be. I do hope the Lord will give him life long enough for me to see him. Tell him how long for him?" I called this evening to see him. It was not long bringing the answer "Dead and buried." Nothing could be said. Nothing could be done. So I hurried out. It is a dark, cold night, and seems all the darker and colder because he is not here. I did not wait until the morning. I wonder how far any one can really share another's sorrow? I wrote as kindly and as sympathetically as I could, but pen, ink, and type seem almost out of place at such times.

The answer was not long in coming. "Thank you for what you have done for me and my dear husband, and for taking so much interest in my son. He is a good boy, though he is deaf. His death has not been seen here so soon before. We have passed morning and night, but it seems as if our prayers had not been answered. I seemed to have lost all. Dear friend, there is only one thing I can ask you to do for me, it is to have a letter from his grave. Please do. I have a small thing in the world for me to lose. As soon as the cross is up we are going to take and rent on to her."

I spent an hour last night at the railway station. A woman who had been with us was very different from the instant she got on the train. She was a widow, and her son had just died. Her blood would not stop her heart. We have passed morning and night, but it seems as if our prayers had not been answered. I seemed to have lost all. Dear friend, there is only one thing I can ask you to do for me, it is to have a letter from his grave. Please do. I have a small thing in the world for me to lose. As soon as the cross is up we are going to take and rent on to her."

They are in great trouble about their possessions, and as a consequence have not been able to sleep all night. The Brigadier examines their papers, supplies the needful, and soon allays their fears. I slipped my hymn on which the New Year is getting very slowly out of the pocket into his hands, and he picked up his pen and forwarded somewhat squashed, and took them to the hospital. The boy is conscious and recognizes his mother and any good doctor improves his spirit when she has much to tell him. The father seems almost dazed, but shortly he wakes up and has shrill prints past counting! Sent him some fruit, and wrote his friends about him.

With great pride he tells me how many prizes Harry had from the Army Sunday School. Harry is a Salvationist, and the children have all been won over to the Army.

He waited until they were all unloaded, and then, as though they did not care much for them, began to count them. Many, I fear, were lost during their last journey, but all that could be done was done.

Visiting hospital tents came across the number of wounded Germans. They were surprised when we handed them chocolate. Quite a number knew The Army. They seem to be anxious to impress on me that they are forced to fight. Seemed very gratified in the last letter home, and the last few words in German. One of them burst into tears trying at hearing his own language. Told me how he longed to see his wife and two children. Alas! I don't think he will ever will.

Passing down a street in D—, the Brigadier noticed a pretty incident. I was feeling very hungry and on the look out for a restaurant. A Frenchman pointing to out evidently wanted to know what we were. One of the French soldiers standing on the corner, unable to speak English, answered by putting his hands in an attitude of prayer, showing that he was a praying people!

Since coming out here I have felt as though I was the only one who could appreciate the name of our dear Army. Shall we live up to it? Only God can help us!

ADJUTANT MARY BOOTH

We have just had a visit from Hamilton Hill and the Bandsmen's Brigade at Hamilton Hill, when they rendered a programme of music and song, presided over by Lieutenant-Colonel Chandler, assisted by Staff-Captain and Mrs. Burrows. (The Hills did their best to make the meeting as interesting as they possibly could). During the evening the Colonel mentioned that Captain Blaney had announced the meeting would have some surprise guests included. A large arch lamp had been installed at the front of the Temple, and hoped that some way would be found for the Toronto Band to render some help to the soldiers-lads in return. The proceeds of the Festival, which amounted to twenty-three dollars, were towards reducing the instrument debt of the Temple Band.

expression of good wishes, he departs.

Next morning he appeared at the Police Court, and in due course approached the witness stand to assist in the cross-examination of the young man in the dock. But the British soldier spoke up. "My comrade is a converted Jew, and bears the racial tokens of his race. 'Are you a Britisher?' asked the Justice of the Peace.

"No, sir, I am a registered alien!"

"Then I can't offer you a profound respect for the Organization whose uniform you wear?" and I would do much to show how really I honour it, but I cannot afford you £100 a week," retorted the lawyer.

"Very good, sir. But may I first say that I did not come here of my own seeking. I was appealed to by your inspector!"

"Oh yes, I know, and am deeply grateful to you for the sympathetic way in which have come to the side of the police already. But there is an English officer whose services we can enlist, and that helps us out."

When the British officer had been brought in, the lawyer continued: "I sold 2,500. Not one had ever attempted to sell so many before in so small a town, and the result fully justified my move in ordering as did, although the organization's revenue for July, 2500 copies, I might mention that all surrounding places were worked also. position; whereupon the now-anxious Magistrate had to appeal to the Salvationist to help them out.

At the time of this business, the representative of British jurisdiction was in his place and addressed the Salvationist, saying how highly he esteemed the kindly manner in which our comrade had ignored the "Cry" which had been addressed to him, and the generous spirit he showed by stepping into the breach after all. This all served to increase his admiration for the Salvation Army.

"And I speak a word or two?" asked the interpreter.

"Certainly."

"Then I must first say how glad I am that I have been of any service to you. In the next place (taking up the Bible from the stand before him) this is the first time I have sworn on the Book. I have studied the sentiments beginning to end, and find here no mention of English, French, German, or Russian; but it does state that all men have sinned, and that Jesus Christ became the propitiation for all men's sins, and that, with it close, I find it having nothing to myself of His provision, I have found salvation from sin." And he sat down in his place.

methods, selling 1,500, an increase of 1250 over previous year.

"My method, in broad outline, is as follows. All depends on a thorough organization. We have now an organization of British soldiers in every part of the town and divided it into sections. Then I appoint a 'War Cry' seller to each section, with positive instructions to call at every house in every street. If they refuse to buy, I repeat my call again and again until they are unable to complete the district. I take care that I either finish it myself, or get some other comrade to do it. Thus I make sure of letting every family at least in town know that there is such a paper, and that it is a good thing."

"My Soldiers, as a rule, get very enthusiastic over selling 'The Cry,' and there is a spirit of friendly rivalry engendered amongst them which greatly helps the sales. This may not be the case. I were to thrust a few 'Crys' into the crowd and tell them to go anywhere they could and sell them. Each one has his or her own district, and knows that it will not be encroached on by others. This is the 'Cry' fully understanding that little the covers of it is salvation for the world. I seek God. I do not need a number of prizes or gifts of money; they do it for the glory of God. I myself take the business section of the town, and personally dispose of many hundreds.

HOPEFUL FOR FUTURE

The Soldiers are taking a deep interest in the Sun-Saving Campaign at present. On Thursday evening Rev. R. MacLean, of the Free Presbyterian Church, gave us an excellent address on "The Great Salvation." It was very inspiring. We are believing for victory in the near future.—F. E. D.

Think how He longed to go,

NEW OFFICERS WELCOMED

Captain and Mrs. Cox have received a most hearty welcome to New Zealand. The comrads of the Corps are calling them "the most delightful in a 'put-your-shoulder-to-the-wheel' spirit." The Winter Campaign is well under way, and there is a most hopeful spirit in the meetings. One excellent case of conversion is that of Captain Cox.

He has recently had a visit from Staff-Captain Peacock, the Young People's Secretary, whose presence with us for a week-end was a great cheer and encouragement to us.—G. G.

Another Drink Tragedy

On his recent visit to Toronto, Billy Sunday showed some of the results that attended the making of a bushel of wheat into whisky. The recent tragedy at Harwich fully equals in horror anything that Mr. Sunday said. From the newspaper account we learn that the man—“were home last night in a partly-intoxicated condition and this morning continued drinking.” What followed is this: The drunken man battered in his wife's skull with the butt end of a gun, and then went and hacked himself in the barn; his six children, the eldest aged fifteen, and the youngest two, being the only eye-witnesses of the tragedy that has made them orphans.

And yet there are those who would place all sorts of obstacles in the way of making Ontario dry. It is the duty of everyone who has any regard for the welfare of his neighbour to do everything possible to prevent him putting the bottle to his lips. We sincerely trust that the effort to make Ontario a dry province will be absolutely successful. The Salvation Army has been described as the greatest temperance society in the world. No one can bear a member of the Organization and use “boozey.” All connected with the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor can be far more safely employed than making stuff which causes tragedies like that which occurred at Harwich Township.

Brigadier Green, president at a Music Festival at Alpington St. (Toronto) on Monday, Nov. 23, and contributed an interesting item to the programme by singing one of his original songs.

Brigadier Bettridge has returned to Headquarters after his first tour as Young People's Secretary. He visited twelve Corps in the Bay of Quinte, Ontario Division, conducted twenty-four Senior and sixteen Young People's meetings, and saw twenty-seven seek Salvation and twenty-three sanctification. His impressions were found in “The Young Soldier.”

Brigadier and Mrs. Miller conducted the meeting at the Mercer Reformatory last Sunday; Major and Mrs. Moore were at the Mimico Jail; Ensign and Mrs. Tyndall at the Hillside Prison Farm; and Ensign and Mrs. Church at Whitchurch Prison Farm.

Captain and Mrs. Wilson have been appointed to Chester, and Captain and Mrs. Woolcott succeeded them at Yorkville.

SPECIAL SERVICE LEGION

How Salvationists Help Those Bereaved Through the War—or Relatives in Doubt and Difficulty

LORD FISHER AND LORD KITCHENER STORIES—THE MOTHER'S SEPARATION ALLOWANCE

THIE casualty lists appear in the daily papers with regularity, showing the names of Canadian mothers and fathers, husbands, and sons are being slain or maimed, fallen victims to sickness along the terrible battle's front, and for a considerable time past our comrades in Canada, in an unofficial way, have been very anxious about the separation allowances that have been called into being by The Salvation Army in Great Britain through the awful destruction of life and limb caused by the war.

The work of the Legion is to comfort and assist materially those who have lost relatives in the campaign and a kind heart may suggest the Committee, with the help of the Special Service Legion, an organization that has been called into being by The Salvation Army in Great Britain through the awful destruction of life and limb caused by the war.

The Best Yet!

Concerning this organization, the following story is told:

It appears that Lord Fisher, the late First Sea Lord, at the request of the King, called in the offices of a London Disraeli Committee for information as to what was being done to cheer up the wives and soldiers. He was informed that The Salvation Army had undertaken to do all that was necessary in that direction.

“We have set apart for it,” he was told at The Salvation Army Headquarters, “men with team hearts and heroic constitutions.” This remark delighted Lord Fisher. He slapped his thigh in sailor fashion, laughed heartily, and exclaimed: “Splendid! this is the best I have heard yet. I will tell the King about it.”

It was in connection with this business of work that the following took place:

A Sandeland woman, with five sons in the army, lay dying. Her one desire was to see her boys again and through the offices of a local Salvation Army Officer, four of the sons serving in England, reached home within twenty-four hours. The number of women who have been bereaved through the war.

There are abundant opportunities for rendering service to the relatives of those at the front, so in view of the great interest shown in this field of service, Commissioner Richards has decided to organize a Special Service Legion, to operate along lines somewhat similar to those in vogue in Great Britain, to be under the direction of Mrs. Commissioner Richards.

Mrs. Brigadier Green, who always dresses in the characteristics of a “cheerful heart” and a cheerful countenance, will be in charge of the Toronto Legion, and the Commissioner is very desirous that the wives of the Headquarters Staff, Officers and Soldiers of the Corps whose circumstances will permit, should volunteer for this branch of service on behalf of those who are sacrificing for the Empire.

The work will be to comfort and extend spiritual consolation to the sorrowing ones, to render practical aid to the home of a wife or mother overwhelmed by grief at the death of husband or son, and to advise in matters of assurance, separation grants, and all matters that may bother women not accustomed to dealing with boards, committees, associations, and governmental departments.

Brigadier Morris, at Territorial Headquarters, who is well informed on all these matters, will always be accessible to member of the Legion in Toronto.

All those who desire to assist in this most Christlike work should communicate at once with Mrs. Commissioner Richards at Territorial Headquarters.

CANADA WEST

The Salvation Singers will be accompanying Staff Captain Sims to the St. Stephen's Church, where he is delivering an address on “Social Reforms.”

Lieutenant-Colonel and Mrs. Turner returned to Oshawa on Sunday, Nov. 28th. Neighbors say the Staff did not need reminding that the Colonel was back at the “fish.”

Heavy congratulations to Lieutenant Eva Norman, G. Turner, A. Brown, and A. Lecksen, who have been promoted to the rank of Captain.

All those who desire to assist in this most Christlike work should communicate at once with Mrs. Commissioner Richards at Territorial Headquarters.

But, with Mrs. Booth, his soul has been especially moved on behalf of the widows and children, and greatly assisted in this direction by Commissioner Lamb, he has devised a scheme of practical help and welfare application. The General's Army is definitely committed to yet another enterprise of mercy and beneficence whereat, we confidently believe, a far larger circle than adherents and friends will rejoice.

But among the lot no condition is more truly pitiable or more worthy of compassion and help than that of the widow with little children dependent upon her. How many of these there may be God only knows! Certainly they already number tens of thousands, and the cry has gone up from the whole land: “How can they be helped?”

But amongst the lot no condition is more truly pitiable or more worthy of compassion and help than that of the widow with little children dependent upon her. How many of these there may be God only knows!

Commissioner Lamb is in a network of help and sympathy will spread round the whole of the Kingdom. It is obvious that, if for a particular family, all the facts concerning it must be carefully ascertained, and the decision of what is best to do based upon the result. This will constitute the work of the local Councils, and will be of a very valuable character.

Seeing that the first necessity for each salutary-dramatized audience, the General has invited the Central Council, known as the Widows' Councilors, already formed by The Salvation Army in London, by appointing suitable persons in every town of the United Kingdom, and that will all be allied to the Central Council.

In this manner a network of help and sympathy will spread round the whole of the Kingdom. SIGNS OF GREAT REVIVAL SHOWERS Soldiers Get Enthused and Many Glorious Victories are Won—Great Times Expected

"MEMORIES OF MOTHER"

Knee-Drill Well Attended—Devil Defeated.

Major and Mrs. Coombs, our new Divisional Commanders, had charge of the meetings at Regina on Nov. 20th-21st. We commenced without an open-air meeting on Saturday evening, after which we adjourned to the Hall where a rousing good meeting was held. The meeting sure was a blessing to us all.

On Sunday morning, at seven o'clock, knee-drill was held, at which ten were present. The number of comrades attending knee-drill and the increase, since they were re-started three weeks ago, is indeed a most satisfying sign of spiritual searching time, and we had two comrades seeking re-consecration and one seeking Salvation. Adjutant Halskirk took the lesson on the afternoon service. He gave a touching talk on "Mother," this being Mother's Week; the theme for the day seemed to be "Mother."

In the Salvation meeting the Major spoke with reference to "Mother." Several incidents that he related were very touching. We feel sure that the salvation service will be deeply impressed in the souls of those who were present. After a terrific struggle with the devil, we had four souls at the Pentent Form, two of them being backsliders—A. H. Smith, Corps Corps.

LADIES TO THE FRONT

In Help to Furnish the Quarters

The sisters of Ottawa II, have organized a Helping Hand League. This League held a Bazaar recently, and realized the handsome sum of $200. This money is to be used better for the front, and make them more comfortable for our Officers. This is our first attempt in work of this kind, and as "nothing succeeds like success," we are going to have another in the spring.

Bandsmaster and Mrs. Gage have returned from Halifax, and God is blessing their service in our midst. Brigadier Morehen, our new Divisional Commander, visited our Corps last week, and all were blessed and inspired by his remarks.

Last Sunday night we had a semi-refreshing time when five of our comrades re-consecrated themselves to God. We are going on to victory.—C. C.

A RECORD SUNDAY

The visit of our new Divisional Commander, Brigadier Abby, was a great blessing to the comrades of Norland Corps on Nov. 21st. In spite of bad weather a record Sunday was spent; two precious souls for Holiness and two for Salvation.

PROFITABLE MEETINGS

The meetings led by Adjutant and Mrs. Coopers at Montreal II, on Sunday, were of very helpful character, closing with a health and soul for Salvation.—W. G. E.

BRIG. AND MRS. MOREHEN

Have Profitable Sunday's Meetings

Sunday, Nov. 21st, a day to which Officers, Soldiers, and friends gathered together to, for some time, sit down to Victory. The Sunday's meeting, conducted by our new Divisional Commanders, Brigadier and Mrs. Morehen, at Montreal I, and we are glad to say they were not disappointed.

Captain Spooner read the Scripture lesson on our open-air meeting, and after Mrs. Morehen had spoken, the brigadier gave a very interesting talk on "Beautiful Crown."

The afternoon was an old-fashioned Free-and-Easy meeting, but the evening was the time at night. The word "Saviour" was the topic of the Hallelujah meeting, and at the close of the meeting we rejoiced over seven precious souls seeking pardon for sin.

Brigadier and Mrs. Morehen have won their way into the hearts of the people, and we are sure that in the time when they will be able to spend another well-end at the new Divisional Commanders a happy and prosperous stay in the Metropolis of Canada. God bless them!

A GLORIOUS REVIVAL

Times of Power—Backsliders for Eighteen Years Returns.

Since the commencement of the Sont-Savoir Campaign we have had good times at Dovercourt. God's love has manifested in a wonderful manner—many souls coming to the Mercy Seat for Salvation and Sanctification.

Our Tuesday Night Sod's Meeting and Friday Night Holiness Meetings have been great times. Fresh interest has been created in the Soldiers' and Holiness meetings, and crowds are splendid; in fact, at all the meetings there are many soldiers and backsliders coming to God.

The first Sunday of the Fall and Winter Campaign seven volunteered for Salvation and Restoration in the night meeting. To God be all the glory. He has been a backslider eighteen years, and in the Sunday night's meeting was converted.

On Sunday, Nov. 28th, in the Holiness meeting we had a glorious time—ten souls seeking Sanctification.

At night two souls were converted to God for Salvation and one for Sanctification. Major Gage concluded this good work among us, and send a mighty outpouring of His Spirit in our midst.

AN OLD FRIEND

Visits Dartmouth—Speaks of the Early Days.

On Sunday, Nov. 21st, we had with us Staff-Captain Byers. The meetings all day were full of blessing, and at night one soul volunteered for God's service.

In the afternoon the Staff-Captain gave a talk on "The Early Work of Dartmouth." He was quite capable of doing this, seeing he was a Cadet here twenty-nine years ago. Our Officers, Captain Murray and Lieutenant Ellis, are leading us on to victory.—E. Y.

HEARTY WELCOME

Given to Adjutant and Mrs. Jaynes

On account of the Congress meetings happening almost simultaneously with the coming of Adjutant and Mrs. Jaynes to Victoria, our Sunday's meeting, conducted by our new Divisional Commanders, Brigadier and Mrs. Morehen, at Montreal I, and we are glad to say they were not disappointed.

Captain Spooner read the Scripture lesson on our open-air meeting, and after Mrs. Morehen had spoken, the brigadier gave a very interesting talk on "Beautiful Crown."

The whole soul sought initiated again in open-air work on Sunday, and the morning's open-air, which is a special feature of the work at this Corps, was considerably interested with the Holiness meeting, however, was good and well attended.

The Adjutant spoke on the subject of the Holiness meeting, having all of one accord. His remarks being well received. This afternoon's meeting was an old-fashioned Free-and-Easy, and the evening was the time at night. The word "Saviour" was the topic of the Hallelujah meeting, and at the close of the meeting we rejoiced over seven precious souls seeking pardon for sin.

Brigadier and Mrs. Morehen have won their way into the hearts of the people, and we are sure that in the time when they will be able to spend another well-end at the new Divisional Commanders a happy and prosperous stay in the Metropolis of Canada. God bless them!

CAMPAIGN STARTS

Anticipating Great Move at the Metropolis

CHANCELLOR WELCOMED

Comrades' Cheered and Blessed

We have had the pleasure of having our new Chancellor, Major Larson, with us for the weekend at Victoria. Both Soldiers and Comrades have alibid our best to make him feel welcome, and we are real glad to have him with us, and we had a happy time. Sunday morning Holiness meeting was grand, and in the afternoon a large crowd gathered to hear Major speak of his thrilling experience in the Empress of Ireland ship-wreck. We had also a very impressive dedicatory service, when the Major dedicated five children to God. The Army.

At night each of the party witnessed to the power of God to save. Every heart was a powerful witness to the truth, and the people were resolved of the opportunity, and found the Saviour. It was a good weekend, and the comrades of Newmarket appreciated the labours of the "Motor Troupe."

LIEUTENANTS LEAD ON

Musie Enjoyed—Five at the Cross

In the absence of Adjutant and Mrs. Larson, who are out of the city conducting meetings in the farming district, the meetings at the Scandinavian Center (Victoria) were led by Lieutenant Norval and Leckie. The services were exceptionally interesting in character; large numbers attending, and at night all souls surrendered to God.

The evening's service was of a bright, soul-stirring character. The brass band and organ filled the spirit of the meeting. This fact was clearly manifested by the manner in which they sang the very appropriate pieces, "Onward, Yes, Onward," "Glorious," "Hallelujah," "Corde Condit," "I'm a Soldier," Staff-Captain and Mrs. Tudor both spoke during the service. Ensign Pugmire took for his subject "Blind Bartimaeus" and held the continued attention of all present. The Officers and comrades enjoyed the spiritual atmosphere of the service, and invited the Singers to pay their Corps another visit in the near future.

FIVE AT THE FRONT

Captain Jones, from Winnings, conducted his meetings at Dartmouth for the week ending Nov. 21st. The services were well attended. God came near, blessing His people and four souls sought pardon and the blessing of a clean heart.

On Sunday, Nov. 28th, we had a semi-refreshing time when five of the Brigadier were helpful and inspiring and we can truly say that God is answering prayer during this Special Campaign.—T. F. S.

ENROLL TWELVE RECRUITS

Corps Making Progress—Meeting Attractive

We have had another week of meetings and consecration. The congregations are increasing and deeper interest is shown, but, best of all, we have souls for our reward.

Our Saturday nights are becoming quite popular. Although it is impossible to get the Band, yet we have lots of music from the concert-guitar, cornet, and harmonium.

Sunday afternoon's congregation was a record one. Sister Phillips' child was dedicated to God and The Army. Then followed a Swearing-in of Sixty-four. The Adjutant had invited many toinsiders of what is taking place on the battlefield, and how Salvationists are doing their nobly.

The appeal at night was given with a hearty, joyful spirit, and we prepared to meet their God. Among the seekers was a man and his wife, who had lost their son last week; three young women, and a man who had been a backslider, longing to come to God, testifying to God's power to save. We met him on press on C. Eacott, Corps Corp.

TERROR TO THE DEVIL!

Motor Troupe Visit Newmarket

Ensign Rice and a number of comrades engaged to Newmarket last weekend in a motor car, and conducted special meetings. Whilst one of the comrades gave their testimony on the open-air, the others by the Singers. Captain L. Jones and Sister C. Williams, of the soprano section, gave interesting testimonies, and the service concluded with the Adjutant in prayer.

The morning service was one in which the liberty and freedom was given to prepare to meet their God.

The evening's service was of a bright, soul-stirring character. The brass band and organ filled the spirit of the meeting. This fact was clearly manifested by the manner in which they sang the very appropriate pieces, "Onward, Yes, Onward," "Glorious," "Hallelujah," "Corde Condit," "I'm a Soldier," Staff-Captain and Mrs. Tudor both spoke during the service. Ensign Pugmire took for his subject "Blind Bartimaeus" and held the continued attention of all present. The Officers and comrades enjoyed the spiritual atmosphere of the service, and invited the Singers to pay their Corps another visit in the near future.

A RECORD SUNDAY

The visit of our new Divisional Commander, Brigadier Abby, was a great blessing to the comrades of Norland Corps on Nov. 21st. In spite of bad weather a record Sunday was spent; two precious souls for Holiness and two for Salvation.

The meetings led by Adjutant and Mrs. Coopers at Montreal II, on Sunday, were of very helpful character, closing with a health and soul for Salvation.—W. G. E.

LIEUT.-COLONEL BOND

Visits St. Catharines—Lively Meeting—Good Results.

Conduct Their First Week-End Campaign—A Time of Great Interest and Blessing;

Captain Paulsen and her capable assistants, Lieutenant E. Davis and Captain J. Miller, also spoke in equally warm and appreciative terms of the splendid lecture to which we had just listened.

The many other incidents presented by the Colonel made his presence a must enjoyable and helpful one.

On Sunday night there was a memorial service conducted by Captain Condé and Captain Gaskin. Major Condie having just laid his dear mother to rest. Sister Mrs. Brewster spoke feelingly of the departed, and Captain and Sister Jean Condé sang a duet.

The morning service was one in which the liberty and freedom was given to prepare to meet their God. Among the seekers was a man and his wife, who had lost their son last week; three young women, and a man who had been a backslider, longing to come to God, testifying to God's power to save. We met him on press on C. Eacott, Corps Corp.

OUR SERIAL STORY

NANCY DICKYBIRD

"There Nivir Wur Such a Miracle!"

XIII—"WHEREFORE I ABHOR MYSELF?"

AGREAT crowd followed Nancy right up the steps of the Citadel that evening afternoon in Harpurhey; and many who had never been inside a place of worship for years now pressed in to see what would become of her.

Miracles are just as popular now as they were in the days when the Savio was built, and, earth and wherever there is a likelihood of their being wrought, crowds are sure to assemble.

As Nancy entered all eyes were upon her, and it would not at all have been surprising if the spectators if she had broken into a wild dance on the floor and then violently assaulted the nearest Salvationist. In fact, that was "the fui" which many of that wretched from the most closed public-houses had pressed in to see.

As to Nancy herself—her mind was in a whirl! The kind words spoken to her, the assurance that the Saviour was waiting to receive her, and the clear, ringing rebuke of the saint urged her to attempt a new life. Then the devil whispered to her that it was hopeless; she was too far down sin ever to rise out of it; and, after all, she was not nearly so bad as many others in the audience, and the person she had just come out of!

She crouched, rather than sat, on a bench near the platform, with soldiers round her shaming, "Halibut!" He breaks the power of cancelled sin, for her encouragement, and Mrs. Tazlign giving out the opening hymn.

The singing, with its wonderful note of absolute confidence in God and joyous realization of salvation, swept over her soul like a flood from Paradise. And, as the saint began to pray, she suddenly realized the immensity of her guilt and the almighty power of God to save her!

With an inarticulate cry, something between a prayer and a moan, she rushed to the Penitent Form, and fell there, weeping and groaning!

Many Knelt with Her

All her life long—in the Sunday School at Church, and in prison—she had known God and sin, but she had never realized till that moment what it all meant!

She had no words in which to make her meaning plain as she knelt, hating the hard wood of the Penitent Form with her rough hands, while the hot tears ran down her wrinkled face, but she was in the same mind as Job when he wrote of God:—

"I know that Thou canst do everything."

"I have heard of Thee by the hearing of my ear; but now mine eye seeth Thee."

"Wherefore I abhor myself, and repent in dust and ashes!"

There were many who knelt with her, and none shrank from her! The meeting was an uproar. Soldiers praying, singing, and crying for joy, and women who began to weep for themselves trying to force them out. This was no "fun" for them—it only made them tremble!

Presently, a light shone in upon Nancy—the great, broad, shining light of salvation—and she rose to her feet "a new woman." All her old desires seemed to have left off her like a rotten garment, and her voice of God wrought in those few minutes at The Salvation Army Penitent Form may be judged of from the fact that from that day to this Nancy Dickybird has not been seen in the room, plenty of her tea and nice cakes, etc., etc., for all the world to see, and all sorts a little Army chorus by way of thanksgiving, the woman-warrior took her upstairs and tidied her up. She came downstairs with the stain of the street removed from her hair, her hair neatly combed, and, upon her face, her head, and wearing clothes found in the wardrobe to replace her rags.

That Sunday afternoon she passed from death into life, and rose from her knees smiling and happy—the victory won!

At the next meeting wondered at herself—and yet quiet at rest. She was not very much concerned as to what was to become of her, for her heart was at peace. If she lived, she would be to God's glory and honor, and in order to be the great humble servant to the great Salvation Army.

It had been announced that she would be present at the open-air, but many were incredulous. "Nancy Dickybird," said the Army, "Nay, it's only another of her mad tricks; but well go and hear what

An Honoured Guest at the Officers' Quarters

she's got to say—onwyay," said the unbelievers.

First Open-Air Testimony

There was a hush when she stepped into the ring, and every eye was upon her. The Salvation Army had prepared for her, and she knew they were prepared for that, and it helped her, for she felt that, and it helped her, for she felt strangely nervous in this new character. And yet, as soon as she began to speak, she gathered strength and courage, and the ring the listeners realized that this was a new Nancy Dickybird, a better one.

"You must come with us to tea, and come again to the night meeting, Nancy," whispered Mrs. Walsh to the poor, ragged woman.

"Oh!" gasped Nancy, and would have begun a protest, only something seemed to give way in her throat, so she could only look at the kindly face, framed in the blue bonnet, through a blinding mist of happy tears!

She—Nancy Dickybird, the terror of the public-houses, shunned by every one with any claim to respectability, whose hours had been spent in proudest places, had been taken home and made much of! Could the love of God, as shown by His servants, go any further?

Major Viscount Cottenham, esq.

of Earl of Erne, who died a short time ago. The vicount was until recently believed to be a prisoner in many, but it is now established that he is dead. He left an eight-year-old son, Lord Gurney.

The Earlom of Aylesford
also passed to a young boy, Lord Guernsey, the son and heir of the present earl, who was born in 1908.

Lieutenant Lord Annesley men at Ostend. A cousin of the Colonel the Hon. G. H. More and son of Lord Kilham.

The list might be carried on definitely. All these are romantic and all that, but the bravest and highest in here.
Often, where a name
may not be historic, a commator remarks that "he was a true, rare, precious, or that great gifts in science or art, G. C. Gladstone, the brilliant man of the great Prentre, and Brigadier Gilber Talbot, to others, were young men who had great promise, and in the halls of distinction themselves, even though men need not be taken up in terrible and pain. But if there is nothing more, there would be a sense of esthetic loss in the name of the ancient names of the ancient names in

Moor, Kneathill, Semple,
Erskine, McLean, Scott,
Kerr, Penthury, Nairn,

these are names that give a sense of permanence and history of the best people, and this is the community of all who speak the tongue.

Save for a mark on your shoulder, there is an impression on the family name, the mind, the iron and the peer. In mud and cold the constant presence of death is fighting side by side. It was these unswerving soldiers of trenches, not for their barren tongue.

Save for a mark on your shoulder, you are right, and we are wrong, and we are so abjectly apologetic that we have, metaphorically speaking, rubbed our proboscides in the dust. Your increase has, however, healed the hurt you made.

Here is what Adjutant Jordan, of Orillia, says:—

"Last year our Corps took 600 copies of 'Cry' and ordered 600 ordered so far 650 this year. You asked in your letter that we did not make any increase on last year. But we have to the number of 50. Seeing that you made a mistake, you may send us 350 more, making the order to 1000 copies per Corps."

Adjutant dear, we made a mistake; you are right, and we are wrong, and we are so abjectly apologetic that we have, metaphorically
speaking, rubbed our proboscides in the dust. Your increase has, however, healed the hurt you made.

Here is a sweet little episode from Captain Hillier, of the 1st of Island, Newf.:—

"Christmas 'War Cry' received.

They are certainly fine, and those who have seen them are charmed with the contents of the same. Will you kindly forward to me 50 more.
Wishing you every success in the sale."

Here is a post-card from nearer home, from Captain T. H. Leech, of Lisgar Street (Toronto) Corps:—
"Your masterpiece to hand. I have doubled my order, making 1,000 copies instead of 500. How does this suit you? Hurrah for Canada East."

It's first-rate! Just the sort of thing that will put the Canada East Territory where she ought to be.

THE WAR CRY

The International "War Cry" Contest

A Bostonian Hopes Canada East Wins

HERIE is a letter from a Bostonian—we are certainly appreciative of his practical interest in the Competition:—

"Enclosed please find one dollar for which kindly send me ten Christmas 'War Cry' copies. I will, if you can do so, for I have got orders for more than that number. I received my copy yesterday. The Canadian Christmas 'War Cry' will, as usual, take front rank, and I am helping Canada East to beat us, although I am now an American. I hope you will do the same."

EASTERN CANADIANS, LISTEN TO THIS: "OUR GOOD CANADIAN COMRADES HAVE DARED TO CHALLENGE US TO A TRIAL OF STRENGTH AND ZEAL IN THIS MATTER"—From a New York "War Cry" Editorial.

OH, BOYS! AINT WE A DARING LOT, AND AINT IT EASY TO BE DARING? WHY, WE'RE DARING AND DIDN'T KNOW
IT! LET'S DARE SOME MORE, AND THOSE WHO HAVEN'T INCREASED ON LAST YEAR DO SO AT ONCE. LET'S SHOW
"OUR GOOD AMERICAN COMRADES" WHAT WE CAN DO
WHEN WE START DARING. EVERY CORPS, "GREATLY DARE —AND THEN SOME!"

THINGS WE SHOULD LIKE TO KNOW

Captain Moon will come up to the level of his famous predecessor—Captain Hancock.

Can anyone tell why little Brampton copied more than the great Riverdale? Can it be that it is more difficult to print, but a man can double its order and sell 500 Christmas 'Cry,' while Riverdale—notwithstanding the Canadian American Contest—takes the same number (325) it did last year? Why?

Why is it that Bowmanville (Captain Luxton and Lieutenant Stone) and Fenelon Falls (Captain Sandford and Lieutenant Kirbyson) should each reduce their order by two hundred?

But it is strange that the little Newmarket Corps should order 450
Christmas 'Cry,' while Oshawa orders only 300.

It is true that Lindsay has dropped 500! Still, its order is 1,000.
Mighty good. We have faith that

Last year Barrie took 500 copies, and that is the number we ordered this year. But your letter has had your desire filled, and we have pleasure in telling you to send us another 500. If this does not satisfy the Editorial Staff, write again. I have no hesitancy in saying that The 'Cry' is a splendid one, and bespoke for this year's number a wide circulation.

We shall certainly write again, if only to receive another such gracious letter in reply.

Here is what Adjutant Jordan, of Orillia, says:—

"Last year our Corps took 600 copies of 'Cry' and ordered 600 so far 650 this year. You asked in your letter that we did not make any increase on last year. But we have to the number of 50. Seeing that you made a mistake, you
may send us 350 more, making the
order to 1000 copies per Corps."

We also heartily congratulate Lieutenant Colonel Chandler on the analysis of his Division (Hamilton), which shows that twelve Corps in total increased, while eleven decreased, and one remained the same.

Halifax Division has also a noble record: fourteen up two, down, and four out. Bravo, Major Hurd! Whoo-poo the noble
Hurd!

St. John Division shows two down, ten up, and ten even. Not at all bad, but there is room up-ward.
Major Bell, Thrua has a great sense of the importance of noble actions are made. Inspire the brave souls of these content with last year's achievements, and get the even ones to mount up.

Aim at the moon if you would strike a star: so we are going to aim at the moon by setting our target at 5,000 copies."

We are delighted. If Adjutant Hurd and his brothers don't "bit the moon." Energy and "boss sense" will accomplish almost anything. Keep your eye on the mark. If he sells 5,000 Copies of "Cry" you will think he will be the greatest "Cry" Corporation in the world! Is Adjutant Hurd to be the sole elephant for the 5,000 notch?

THE WAR CRY

"Taking a stick of candy from a baby." Will you stand for that?

It seems to us that there are nine Corps in the Toronto Division, eleven in the Hamilton Division, twelve in the Montreal Division, thirteen in the Montreal Division, ten in the St. John Division, and four in the Halifax Division, who have not thought it worth their while to participate in the "Candy." Did you think it would be "taking a stick of candy from a baby," and that the baby wears stars and stripes. Well, let us tell you that the American Easteners may take your candy, but we will hold fast to ours. So let the fifty-five Corps in the Divisions who have not yet set done "their bit" rise up and get at it and send in an increase to begin with of a hundred extra copies per Corps.

Uncle Sam has a right to his right proportions at the beginning of 1916. ASK YOURSELF THIS QUESTION: "HAVE I DONE ANYTHING TO SECURE VICTORY FOR CANADA?"

Then there are the Corps! And the Training College Division. Shall the glorious ensign of the Dominion be trailed down by the victory of those contesting under the stars and stripes? Never!

SEND IN YOUR INCREASES AT ONCE!

ARMY SONGS

ALL MY LIFE

Tunes.—Jesus, Saviour, Christ Divine, 206; Song Book, 447.
Jesus, precious Saviour, Thou hast saved my soul,
From sin's foul corruption made me fully whole;
Ever now I serve Thee, what'er thy befall.
Till in Heaven I crown Thee King and Lord of all.

Chorus

All my heart I give Thee;
Day by day, what that may;
All my life I give Thee;
Dying men to save.

From the lovely manger I will follow Thee,
In the desert and the strife near Till I will bear the sufferings of the cross I will gladly bear
If with Thee in Heaven I a-crown may wear.

ROOM FOR JESUS

JESUS, I LOVE THY NAME
Jesus, I love Thy charming name,
'Tis music to my ear;
Pain would I sound it out so loud
That earth and Heaven should hear.

Yea, Thou art precious to my soul,
My Transport and my Trust;
Jewels to Thee are gaudy toys;
Gold is sordid dust.

The grace still dwells within my heart;
And needs its fragrance there;
The noblest balm of all its wounds,
The cordial of its care.

SAVED FROM SIN

Down at the Cross where my Saviour died,
Down, where for cleansing from sin I cried;
There in my heart was the Blood applied;
Glory to His name!

TAKE MY HEART!

Jesus, Saviour, Christ Divine,
When I know and feel Thee mine,

Without a doubt of fear?
With anxious, loosing thirst I come
To beg Thee make my heart Thy home,
And keep me holy here.

I can, I do just now believe,
I do the Highest grace receive.

The Spirit makes me clean;
Christ take the whole of my poor heart,
No chains shall ever from me part
My Lord, Who reigns supreme.

INSPIRE MY LIFE!

Tunes.—Come, comrades, dear, 136;
He lives, 138; Song Book, 361.

Come, Jesus, Lord, with holy fire,
Come, and my quickened heart inspire.

Cleaned in Thy precious blood;
Now to my soul Thyself reveal.

Thy mighty working let me feel,
Since I am born of God.

My will be swallowed up in Thee,
Light in Thy light still may I see,

In Thee unclouded face;

Called by full strength of trust to prove,
Let all my quickened heart be love,
My spotless life be praise.

ROOM FOR JESUS

Have you any room for Jesus—
He who bears your load of sin?

As He knockes and asks admision, Sinner, will you let Him in?

Chorus
Room for Jesus, King of Glory!

Room for pleasure, room for business;

But for Christ the Crucified—

Not a place that He can enter—

In the heart for which He died!

Room and time now give to Jesus;

Soon will pass God's day of grace;

Soon your heart be cold and silent,

And your Saviour's pleading cease.
